What is Apprenticeship?

Apprenticeship is a well-organized and supervised training method we use to enable people with little or no prior knowledge of our craft or trade to become qualified journeymen. It is an “earn while you learn program” as the on-the-job portion of the training is a full-time, well-paid job.

- 1. You will be employed under a union contract, which includes regular wage increases and diversified training.*
- 2. You will be paid good wages while you learn*
- 3. You will gain experience using the most modern practices*
- 4. You will work under the direction of a competent Journeyman who will teach you the trade in the shop and at the job-site. You will receive close personal attention*
- 5. You will be required to attend evening classes a minimum of six (6) hours each week, and one (1) or more Saturday classes per month to receive technical instruction related to our trade. This is one reason for our high academic entrance requirements*

Career Description

The Residential Electrical Construction Trade requires physical effort on the part of the apprentice. Construction's scope of work requires that apprentices climb ladders and scaffolds, pull and push materials and equipment, crawl, crouch, work in cramped and confined quarters, and lift 25 to 50 pounds on a fairly consistent basis. Apprentices must also possess the ability to understand written and spoken English, and closely follow specific instructions, especially safety directions. Residential Wiremen use many and varied hand and power-assisted tools to install conduit, wiring, fixtures, devices, and electrical apparatuses within residential buildings.

We Are Selective

We are seeking men and women of all races who demonstrate the best character, aptitude, motivation, and traits conducive to success in our trade. Employer and union representatives who make up the JAC, interview all qualified candidates in an effort to select only the best candidates.

A good candidate is one with a record of having done well in school, especially in math and in science, one who has demonstrated reliability, possesses a sincere desire to succeed, and one who has a positive attitude and the desire to work hard. The electrical construction trade is an occupation requiring a high level of knowledge and skill which we teach to hundreds of successful qualified and fortunate individuals.
